HAMBURG FALLS, HASTENING END OF WAR

The War Today..

THE IMPULSE today is to write "This is V-E day." It would be, if Allied men were not still fighting and dying in the pockets which the last fanatical Germans can't hold but refuse to surrender. Or it would be if V-E day had not already passed.

Historians will argue that V-E day was the day in 1940 that Hitler failed to invade England, or the day he beat himself by invading Russia, the day he was turned back at Stalingrad or El Alamein, or the day he failed to throw the Allies off the Normandy beaches.

Whatever the verdict, the day when Germany changed her military policy, stopped fighting for key centers and began to declare them open cities, will stand as a great climax of the war. We are down to the mop-up, and it begins to look as though the final days of guerrilla warfare may not be so extensive as once expected.

Without Hamburg, Prague, Munich, Berlin, Stettin, Vienna, Bremer or any important hedgehog left, only Heaven knows why any Germans keep fighting. Probably only on mad momentum—plus the fact that we haven't arrived yet at all the army headquarters to accept all the surrenders, that all the Nazi commanders haven't had the opportunity for their last little "honor-satisfying" battle to save them from the "ignominy" of surrendering without firing a shot.

Other Contests
In the Third and Fourth wards, contests are evident on both tickets. L. W. Hinton and John Emery are vying for the GOP bid and Harold J. Asty and W. J. Breault are seeking the Democratic nomination.

Regardless of history's decision on just when Germany lost the war militarily, there will be little debate on moral grounds. Germany lost the war before she began it, by attacking against herself the freedom-loving, right thinking people of the globe.

Nowhere is this so well demonstrated as in Italy, where the erstwhile Hitlerites have just surrendered.

Hardly a nation but has been represented there, many of them by fully organized armies—Poles, Hindus and Moslems from India, Jews, Americans, Britons, Canadians, New Zealanders, Australians, Yugoslavs, French, Negroes from New Orleans and Negroes from Africa, Japanese from Hawaii, and the first important expeditionary force ever sent across the seas from Latin-America, the Brazilians; Italians themselves since they escaped from their Fascist rulers.

The German idea arrayed all these, and more, against itself. The recent sweep of events has been so great as to approach confusion. The end of resistance in Holland, Denmark, Norway and the remaining continental pockets seems merely a matter of arrangements. We are in the middle of the greatest military surrender in all history. The curtain falls on a Germany, which is not brave, but merely disgusting, in its final tail-lashings.

FIVE CONTESTS TO MARK LOCAL VOTING JULY 31

Republicans Have Three Races, Democrats Two For Primaries

Filings for nominations for local offices in the July 31 primaries closed at 7:30 p.m. yesterday and county board of elections officials termed the total of declarations "far below normal" as only 157 candidates—97 Republicans and 60 Democrats—placed their names upon the ballots, which have 184 ticket spots.

Salem filings revealed a complete Republican slate, including three contests, and a partially filled Democratic ticket marked by two contests.

Contests are the word on the GOP side for councilmen-at-large positions, three to be nominated. Fred A. Shaffer and Harry M. Vincent, both incumbents are seeking nomination along with Ned Massa and J. Don Guiley, seeking office for the first time. Councilman Charles Rehut decided not to run.

Other Contests
In the Third and Fourth wards, contests are evident on both tickets. L. W. Hinton and John Emery are vying for the GOP bid and Harold J. Asty and W. J. Breault are seeking the Democratic nomination.

Major R. R. Johnson is a candidate for re-nomination on the COP ticket and Norman Phillips, former mayor, is the Democratic candidate. Atty Henry L. Rees, Republican, is seeking re-election, unopposed, and Orville Hoover is again candidate for treasurer.

C. F. Zimmerman and A. F. DeWan, Republican and Democrat respectively, are candidates for president of council, unopposed.

H. W. Pealy and Arch Wentz, Republican incumbents from the First and Second wards, are unopposed.

Democratic nominees for the councilmen-at-large seats are Fred W. Koenreich, Alton M. Fenton and William E. Steffel.

Little County Interest

Apathy is evident in the party nominations. In Lisbon and East Palestine no Democrats filed, but contests are in existence on the GOP side.

Colombiana has a complete slate from both parties, but has no contests in either group. Consequently that village may dispense

CHILDREN NEED PARENTS' LOVE, PTA GROUP TOLD

184 Attend Institute To Hear Dr. Miller: Other Speakers Are Heard

Let us bring up a generation which will passionately love all that is warm and kind and human, and hate with equal passion all that is evil and cruel. Let us bring up a generation which will believe in itself and the world of which is a part despite war and chaos.

This was the message given by Dr. Joseph Miller of Toledo, psychologist for the Lucas county child guidance clinic, to parents and teachers who attended the Wednesday evening session of the Ohio Congress of Parents and Teachers institute at the First Christian church.

One hundred and forty-four were registered, including visitors from Columbus, Canton, Alliance, Paris, Wellsville, Hartville, O., and Fairlawn, N. Y. There were 80 at the afternoon session.

Delinquency Causes Cited

Dr. Miller discussed the causes and cure for delinquency among children. He stated that 75 percent of these children come from broken homes, where there is no love. According to the speaker there are few happy marriages and with most couples they are "just married."

"Love your children genuinely because that is the only thing that counts," he said. "Let's have patience. Take your Bible and read St. Paul's love letter—it starts and

LINK HITLER, GOEBBELS IN SUICIDE PACT

Information Given To Russians Who Seek Proof Of Claim

By ROMNEY WHEELER

LONDON, May 3—Adolf Hitler, who vowed to rule the world, committed suicide in the ruins of Berlin with Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels and the chief of the German general staff, Gen. Hans Krebs, a Soviet communiqué said today.

The Russians declared their informant was Dr. Hans Fritzsche, Goebbels' chief lieutenant, who was captured as Berlin fell. It was presumed Russian commanders would make vigorous inquiry to obtain indisputable proof.

Liberation

The mockery the Germans made of liberation when they were seizing territory in its name for their European slave empire has hung like a shabby curse over the Allied armies in their march on Germany.

They have not always been welcomed as liberators. Some of the Europeans they freed from German rule had no zeal for freedom. In a dispatch from western Holland, L. S. Shapiro reports for North American Newspaper Alliance that fanatical Dutch Nazis are the backbone of resistance to the Canadian army. Liberation in other nations has been looked upon sometimes as a limited blessing.

But for one European minority there has been no question of the blessing of liberation—the captives of Germany who experienced the ultimate degradation of existence under German despotism. The populations of the concentration camps have been rescued from an existence without hope. Liberation has spared the handful who survived from the certainty of torture, slow starvation and death. In a sense, they are the only ones clearly qualified to speak of liberation; only they have known the ultimate in debasement under the terrorists who ran amuck in Europe. Many of them were imprisoned because they dared to think as free men. All of them could say to those who remained outside the death camps—"Here you may see what can happen to you tomorrow if European civilization can be captured wholly by terrorists of any nationality."

Unfinished Business

Warnings of a desperate shortage of food in war-wrecked Europe and a serious dislocation in the American domestic supply unless this government prepared in advance to withstand the extraordinary drain of emergency exports are now being confirmed by events.

The specter of starvation in Europe is rising from the ruined cities and trampled farm lands. The actual and probable contents of the "larder of democracy" are being totaled in an atmosphere of confusion. Americans are being told that it is their obligation to do everything they can do, and they accept the obligation.

But by the token of their acceptance, they expect that the present confusion in the handling of the available and prospective food supply will be dealt with forthrightly. President Truman inherited this bit of unfinished business from his predecessor. As President, Mr. Roosevelt never saw fit to do with food what he did with rubber, petroleum and solid fuels; namely, to appoint a coordinator to bring order out of the chaos of scattered agencies controlling food production and bidding for the food supply. This recommendation has been before the country for more than a year. It is before the country now.

As the pinch grows worse and the weaknesses inherent in inefficient administration are revealed more glaringly day by day, President Truman will need to make food one of the first of his pressing domestic responsibilities as chief executive. The problem no longer can be trusted to take care of itself, with the assistance of good weather and a tolerant public.

The Gap To Be Bridged

Most of the foolish expectations about the United Nations conference have been dissolved in the acid bath of reality.

In approaching the problem of postwar security, as in dealing with the problem of prosecuting the war itself, national prestige is revealed as a heavy handicap. The common goal is made to seem less important than the individual goal. The United States and Great Britain are reluctant to yield to Russia on Poland; Russia is reluctant to yield to the United States and Great Britain on Argentina—and these are only samples of the handicap imposed by stubborn nationalism.

The ideal of cooperative security can be realized only by bridging the gap between uni-lateral action and multi-lateral action. Decisions for the common good cannot be reached without common consent to abide by them, and they cannot even be made with any effect unless the nation or nations that represent the minority are willing to abide by the will of the majority. The gap to be bridged at San Francisco, or somewhere else if it cannot be done there, is wide and deep. But it is not an insuperable obstacle.

Perhaps San Francisco will be only the means of surveying what must be done. Perhaps nothing will be accomplished now but the preparation of approaches, with the building of the span to come later when proper materials are available. As Walter Lippmann has suggested, a temporary job may be all that is feasible now. But there can be no failure; there must be no assumption of failure. That would be an admission by the nations that international security and an era of peace were beyond attainment—that their efforts would have to be directed immediately toward preparations for World war III and the further destruction of everything they hold precious.

Corpus Delecti

If Adolf Hitler is dead, as reported by German sources, he picked a good time for it. If death was involuntary, someone else picked a good time.

If Hitler is not dead, but has gone into hiding—and until his corpse has been officially identified by non-Germans, this seems to be a more reasonable supposition—he picked good time to disappear.

Hitler could not relish the kind of death Mussolini had in Milan. No Nazi, least of all Hitler, could relish the prospect of being captured by the Allies, particularly the Russians, who have the heaviest score to settle.

It would be in the tradition of Nazi duplicity for Hitler to be conveniently martyred by a phony death report at this juncture so he could turn up later, or at least evade the consequences of his crimes.

Hitler may be dead. If he is, it's a pleasure. If not, the hunt must continue. Ultimately, the arch criminal of the war will reap the whirlwind of his insane plot against the world. Whether it is sooner or later has become, for the moment, a matter of little consequence. The life of the most obscure Allied soldier is a thousand times more important than Hitler's death.

The Stars Say

For Friday, May 4.

CONCENTRATED effort, constructive ideas and well-worked-out plans, together with energy and native should prove unusually successful in putting over major projects, especially in fresh fields or with benefit of unique, curious or amazing techniques. Novel ideas as well as their practical development should win the support of those in high places, particularly if the conduct be courageous, tolerant and obliging rather than bold and belligerent.

It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a year of constructive and lucrative achievements by the consolidation of the resources, energies, talents and ingenuity in lines out of the ordinary or in launching quite new or unique propositions or projects. While these should be developed practically and skillfully, yet for appeal to gain needful assistance or approval from public or influential sources, the element of personality, prestige or social standing might prove a valuable asset.

A child born on this day will be energetic, ingenious and practical and, as well, charming, original and of exceptional personal appeal. All contribute to its success.

Private De Lorenzo

An Army uniform now is dignifying the figure of Thomas V. De Lorenzo, convicted assassin, self-confessed perjurer, who once told a Congressional committee that as between producing planes for the Navy and winning a pay raise, he would take the raise.

De Lorenzo is the union leader who, though his oral had become virtually non-existent, got Draft Director Hershey to intervene in his induction on the ground that he still, as a civilian, was essential to the prosecution of the war.

If De Lorenzo proves a reasonably apt rookie, he may get to the China coast or the Japanese homeland in time to learn at first hand what would happen to soldiers if many American union leaders shared his cynical attitude toward war production.

Sulfonamide Can Cause Severe Reactions

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

THE sulfonamide drugs have more than proven their worth and have saved many lives by combating a variety of infections. He will decide when one of the sulfonamide drugs is necessary, and which one of the many now available will do the most good and produce the least reactions.

It has been found that certain patients may be sensitive to the sulfonamide drugs. Should the drugs be administered to these patients, severe reactions may occur.

According to Dr. Francis A. Ellis, of Maryland, sensitivity to sulfonamide drugs, particularly to sulfathiazole, may develop from its use on the skin in the form of an ointment, or in the form of drops put into the nose. He has seen a number of patients who were shown by the patch test to be sensitive to sulfathiazole.

Patch Test

The patch test is made by placing some of the sulfathiazole on a small piece of gauze which is fastened to the skin with adhesive tape for twenty-four hours. A person who is sensitive to the drug will develop a red area, within twenty-four hours, where the sulfathiazole came in contact with the skin.

Some patients have developed a severe inflammation of the skin immediately after they took sulfathiazole internally. For this reason, it is suggested that sulfathiazole should not be used for a period longer than five days, except when necessary.

Sulfathiazole ointment sometimes is used for skin eruptions known as eczema. Dr. Ellis does not believe this advisable, since the drug is of no value in these patients and may produce sensitivity. Other doctors may advise it if there is infection present.

Another reason why sulfathiazole should not be used over long periods of time is that such use may make the patient over-sensitive and then later on, when he needs sulfonamide drugs for a more serious condition, he will be unable to take them.

Use For Short Period

It is therefore concluded that sulfathiazole ointments should be used only for a short period of time, and then only when there is present some active infection that is known to respond to this form of treatment.

It is not a good plan to put the sulfathiazole into an ointment base which contains such fatty substances as lanolin or cholesterol, since these things may increase the possibility of sensitization to the sulfathiazole.

The Gap To Be Bridged

Most of the foolish expectations about the United Nations conference have been dissolved in the acid bath of reality.

In approaching the problem of postwar security, as in dealing with the problem of prosecuting the war itself, national prestige is revealed as a heavy handicap. The common goal is made to seem less important than the individual goal. The United States and Great Britain are reluctant to yield to Russia on Poland; Russia is reluctant to yield to the United States and Great Britain on Argentina—and these are only samples of the handicap imposed by stubborn nationalism.

The ideal of cooperative security can be realized only by bridging the gap between uni-lateral action and multi-lateral action. Decisions for the common good cannot be reached without common consent to abide by them, and they cannot even be made with any effect unless the nation or nations that represent the minority are willing to abide by the will of the majority. The gap to be bridged at San Francisco, or somewhere else if it cannot be done there, is wide and deep. But it is not an insuperable obstacle.

Perhaps San Francisco will be only the means of surveying what must be done. Perhaps nothing will be accomplished now but the preparation of approaches, with the building of the span to come later when proper materials are available. As Walter Lippmann has suggested, a temporary job may be all that is feasible now. But there can be no failure; there must be no assumption of failure. That would be an admission by the nations that international security and an era of peace were beyond attainment—that their efforts would have to be directed immediately toward preparations for World war III and the further destruction of everything they hold precious.

Corpus Delecti

If Adolf Hitler is dead, as reported by German sources, he picked a good time for it. If death was involuntary, someone else picked a good time.

If Hitler is not dead, but has gone into hiding—and until his corpse has been officially identified by non-Germans, this seems to be a more reasonable supposition—he picked a good time to disappear.

Hitler could not relish the kind of death Mussolini had in Milan. No Nazi, least of all Hitler, could relish the prospect of being captured by the Allies, particularly the Russians, who have the heaviest score to settle.

It would be in the tradition of Nazi duplicity for Hitler to be conveniently martyred by a phony death report at this juncture so he could turn up later, or at least evade the consequences of his crimes.

Hitler may be dead. If he is, it's a pleasure. If not, the hunt must continue. Ultimately, the arch criminal of the war will reap the whirlwind of his insane plot against the world. Whether it is sooner or later has become, for the moment, a matter of little consequence. The life of the most obscure Allied soldier is a thousand times more important than Hitler's death.

The Stars Say

For Friday, May 4.

CONCENTRATED effort, constructive ideas and well-worked-out plans, together with energy and initiative should prove unusually successful in putting over major projects, especially in fresh fields or with benefit of unique, curious or amazing techniques. Novel ideas as well as their practical development should win the support of those in high places, particularly if the conduct be courageous, tolerant and obliging rather than bold and belligerent.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a year of constructive and lucrative achievements by the consolidation of the resources, energies, talents and ingenuity in lines out of the ordinary or in launching quite new or unique propositions or projects. While these should be developed practically and skillfully, yet for appeal to gain needful assistance or approval from public or influential sources, the element of personality, prestige or social standing might prove a valuable asset.

A child born on this day will be energetic, ingenious and practical and, as well, charming, original and of exceptional personal appeal. All contribute to its success.

Private De Lorenzo

An Army uniform now is dignifying the figure of Thomas V. De Lorenzo, convicted assailant, self-confessed perjurer, who once told a Congressional committee that as between producing planes for the Navy and winning a pay raise, he would take the raise.

De Lorenzo is the union leader who, though his local had become virtually non-existent, got Draft Director Hershey to intervene in his induction on the ground that he still, as a civilian, was essential to the prosecution of the war.

If De Lorenzo proves a reasonably apt rookie, he may get to the China coast or the Japanese homeland in time to learn at first hand what would happen to soldiers if many American union leaders shared his cynical attitude toward war production.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Sulfonamide Can Cause Severe Reactions

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

THE sulfonamide drugs have more than proven their worth and have saved many lives by combating a variety of infections. But, as with other drugs, the use of these preparations is not without some danger, especially if taken without the doctor's guidance.

It has been found that certain patients may be sensitive to the sulfonamide drugs. Should the drugs be administered to these patients, severe reactions may occur.

According to Dr. Francis A. Ellis, of Maryland, sensitivity to sulfonamide drugs, particularly to sulfathiazole, may develop from its use on the skin, in the form of an ointment, or in the form of drops put into the nose. He has seen a number of patients who were shown by the patch test to be sensitive to sulfathiazole.

Patch Test

The patch test is made by placing some of the sulfathiazole on a small piece of gauze which is fastened to the skin with adhesive tape for twenty-four hours. A person who is sensitive to the drug will develop a red area, within twenty-four hours, where the sulfathiazole came in contact with the skin.

Some patients have developed a severe inflammation of the skin immediately after they took sulfathiazole internally. For this reason, it is suggested that sulfathiazole should not be used for a period longer than five days, except when necessary.

Sulfathiazole ointment sometimes is used for skin eruptions known as eczema. Dr. Ellis does not believe this advisable, since the drug is of no value in these patients and may produce sensitivity. Other doctors may advise it if there is infection present.

Another reason why sulfathiazole should not be used over long periods of time is that such use may make the patient over-sensitive and then later on, when he needs sulfonamide drugs for a more serious condition, he will be unable to take them.

Use For Short Period

It is therefore concluded that sulfathiazole ointments should be used only for a short period of time, and then only when there is present some active infection that is known to respond to this form of sulfathiazole.

AN INVESTMENT IN GOOD APPEARANCE

How many occupations in this picture?

There are no tricks—no hidden faces. Just see how many ordinary, everyday occupations you can find. Count 'em before you check the answer in the tiny type below.

Whatever the number, it's a pretty safe bet that all these occupations—and many more—are represented among the folks who own your local electric light and power company.

Housewives and farmers lead the stockholder lists of most such companies. But there are plenty of nurses and doctors, teachers and mechanics, secretaries and salesmen, too. There are several million of these direct owners—and you may be among them.

Certainly you are included among the indirect owners, if you have a savings account or life insurance policy. When you make a deposit or pay a premium, the money isn't just stuffed in a strong-box and left there. It's put to work earning a profit for you—a profit called "interest."

Banks and insurance companies invest your money carefully. They put a large proportion of it into electric light and power securities—because these companies have proved their basic soundness over the years by dependable service and good business management.

So the electric industry is probably the most widely owned industry in America. Almost every American has a stake in it. And what helps the industry helps you.

of these cards have been those who how thoroughly automatic the pon who was in the Philippines capture barked a command in Japanese which rolled all through the camp. Instantly, every prisoner was to attention.He was a 14-year-old. He looked too young for long pants. Another was nearing 60. Interrogated through interpreters, one prisoner said he gave up because he was going to death. Another frankly admitted he fell asleep at his post and awakened in the clutches of a Japanese guerrilla.All conceded they were surprised to be accorded good treatment. They asked to like army rations but shy away from meat.Most Japanese being water color artists, they paint scenes, such as Mt. Fujiyama, which they give to visitors. Their docility makes you off guard.But when you get away you meet fellow American in a field hospital. He tells you of the same docile appearance of a Japanese who stood tall legs together, as if giving orders. But when the soldier approached, the Japanese spread his legs, releasing a hand grenade which killed him and wounded the soldier.After you hear that, the docility

Bonus Bill Drive
Is In Full Swing(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 3.—A veterans bonus drive with an estimated $11,000,000,000 price tag, is in full swing on Capitol Hill.

It got off to a flying start under the guidance of Rep. Rankin (D-Miss.), chairman of the house veterans' committee and one of the framers of the G. I. Bill of Rights.

It calls for payment of $20 a week for a year to any member of the armed services who served 90 days or more since Sept. 16, 1940, and was not dishonorably discharged.

Rankin predicted the measure he introduced yesterday as an amendment to the G. I. Bill of Rights would win early and overwhelming approval.

On the basis of $1,640 each for the more than 10,000,000 men and women eligible, the total would be in the neighborhood of $11,000,000,000.

Rep. Hohimer son of Mrs. Anna Hohimer, R. D. 2, Lisbon, was wounded April 10 by shrapnel. He entered service April 14, 1944, and went overseas six weeks ago. He formerly worked at Scott's greenhouse.

Pfc. Ball, a former Lisbon High school and Mount Union college student, also was wounded by shrapnel in the right knee on April 9.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ball, he entered service May 17, 1943, and has been overseas since March, 1944.

I guess our town doesn't like rationing any better than other folks. But when a fellow went from door to door the other day, peddling butter, cheese, and bacon without points, he didn't find a single taker.

And from where I sit, housewives can brighten limited meals with cheerful table decorations, sparkling cider or tangy ice-cold beer, or side dishes of homemade preserves and fruits and nuts. Those little touches can be mighty helpful to the appetite.

Ed Carey's missus, Sarah, summed it up. "I'd just be shocked to have that butter on my table," Sarah says. "I'd a heap rather have my family and guests put up with what I can serve honestly, than give 'em a treat from the Black Market."

Bonus Bill Drive Is In Full Swing

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 3—A veterans bonus drive, with an estimated $11,000,000 price tag, is in full swing on Capitol Hill.

It got off to a flying start under the guidance of Rep. Rankin (D-Miss.), chairman of the house veterans committee and one of the framers of the G. I. Bill of Rights.

It calls for payment of $20 a week for a year to any member of the armed services who served 90 days or more since Sept. 16, 1940, and was not dishonorably discharged.

Rankin predicted the measure he introduced yesterday as an amendment to the G. I. Bill of Rights would win early and overwhelming approval.

On the basis of $1,640 each for the more than 10,000,000 men and women eligible, the total would be in the neighborhood of $11,000,000,000.

Rankin said the existing provision in the G. I. bill for $20-a-week payments to unemployed veterans only "puts a premium on idleness."

The adjusted compensation would be in addition to mustering-out pay already provided by law. This ranges from $100 to $350, depending on the length and place of service.

SO THEY SAY

These child-soldiers gone wild is certainly one of the most dreadful things the history of war has seen.

—Stockholm newspaper, on Berlin battle.

Our view is that one thing that led to the present war was the great depression. So we hope the nations will get together so that never again will we see food destroyed in one country while people starve in another.

—Clement Attlee, British Deputy Prime Minister and San Francisco delegate.

To decree a national employment goal of 60,000,000 or any other number of jobs and maintain that goal by government "investment" is necessary is not the road to wartime prosperity.

—Monthly Review, Guaranty Trust Co. of New York.

HITLER—In Many Roles Along Road To Disaster

ADOLF HITLER, sickly son of an Austrian peasant woman, a common soldier in World War I, a post-war failure who drifted uselessly until he was 30, became ruler of Germany at 44 and, as one of the most ruthless conquerors since Attila the Hun, came nearer to dominating the world than had any man before him. But his house of cards, built on the blood and misery of the millions he conquered, including the German people, collapsed about him. Thus he ended his meteoric career as he started it—a failure—at bay before the wrath of the world's outraged humanity. As an agitator in 1919, he and six other malcontents formed what was to be the Nazi party in Munich. The abortive "beer hall" putsch of 1923 failed, he was later arrested and sent to jail, where he wrote "Mein Kampf," the Nazi bible. By strong-arm methods and political craft, he finally won leadership of Germany, tricking aged Field Marshal von Hindenburg, the president, into making him Reich Chancellor. Once firmly in the saddle, he and his cohorts intensified the drive for a world-dominating Germany. A master spellbinder, his voice hypnotized his followers and lulled the alarmed democracies into fatal acceptance of his promises. Looking to the future, he poisoned the minds of a whole growing generation of Germans by indoctrinating the nation's children with Nazi ideology. When the Fuehrer threatened war, Britain swallowed its pride and permitted its Prime Minister, Neville Chamberlain, to fly to Hitler to appease him. It worked—temporarily—but when Hitler was ready, he unleashed the war he had planned all along. He strutted in ravished Poland as the great War Lord. One by one his armies overran weaker nations. France fell quikly, and he danced with glee when his troops paraded under the Arc de Triomphe. But his days as conqueror were numbered. He made the fatal mistakes of attacking Russia and declaring war on the United States. From then on his path, though studded with intermittent victories, was inexorably down hill. He ended, a hunted, hated man, his country devastated, his people ruined.

Shoe Builder's 500 Patrons Are Midgets

(By United Press)

CHICAGO — Rudyard Kipling didn't have Jack Hoffert, Chicago shoe builder, in mind when he wrote the line, "Boots, boots, boots."

Hoffert doesn't need any literary exemplification of his work.

It shows in 500 wooden duplicates of tiny midget feet stacked in neat racks at his store. He also has models of special size 18 footgear for a circus giantess 8 feet tall and copies for another circus woman, whose shoes are as wide as they are long.

Twenty-five years ago, the Chicagoan started designing shoes for midgets when he observed that children's shoes looked so out of proportion on the midget feet. He invested about $500 in miniature lasts. Now he claims to have every midget in the country as a customer.

"I take a midget order quicker than one for regular size," he said. "Whenever a midget needs a pair of shoes, he just sends me a picture of the style he wants and it's made up on the last."

He got into the bigger shoe sizes by relenting from a firm promise not to make any shoes other than those for midgets. Now, he has models for above-average sizes and "tip-toe" shoes with six-inch heels, forbidden by wartime government regulation. He still gets requests for the latter from pint-sized women—but is an advocate of ballet slippers for the tall girl.

Hoffert also takes the credit for the camouflaged shoes for short men, made to boost them skyward as much as three inches. He claims to have introduced the open-toed shoe for women 24 years ago, but says it didn't go over at the time "because it was vulgar."

Probably the most weird—and the most useless—creation of the shoe designer now is a woman's pair of footgear with the top of each shoe containing a small pocket for cigarettes and matches.

"I still get about a dozen orders a year for those—you'd be surprised," he said.

LEAVES FROM A WAR CORRESPONDENT'S NOTEBOOK
by Hal Boyle

WITH THE U. S. FIRST ARMY AT THE ELBE—(Delayed by Censor) — The Elbe river is both the symbol of American-Soviet friendship and a barrier to the development of that friendship.

Since the spontaneous series of initial meetings at the time of the linkup, when the exuberance of joining up overruled other considerations, a frontier rigidly fixing the boundaries of the two armies has been established.

"I got across the bridge all right," he said. "Then a Russian officer came up and told me very firmly that I would have to go back and come over with the official party."

So far there has been no exchange of groups of soldier visitors between the two armies, though such a program undoubtedly would be met with great enthusiasm by both American and Russian enlisted men. They are mutually curious and disposed to be friendly. Only a few hundred Russians and Americans have had contact so far, but they seemed instinctively to like each other.

U. S. Soviet Newsman Meet

Actually the two armies know very little about each other—on any bridge. They also were counted as they returned—to see that none developed wanderlust.

One Signal corps photographer tried to go across the bridge to get a picture of Hedges as he rode over the Elbe.

"I got across the bridge all right," he said. "Then a Russian officer came up and told me very firmly that I would have to go back and come over with the official party."

That frontier is the Elbe river and neither side now crosses without official sanction or invitation from the other army.

The Russians have been extremely hospitable at meetings of regimental, divisional, corps and army commanders of the two armies, but have in no sense relaxed either their censorship or their policy of restricting the movements of foreign personnel within Red army lines.

Theoretically, at least, no one from either the Russian or the American army crosses the Elbe river except in officially controlled parties, carefully supervised. The Russians simply do not want any friend or foe, wandering around in their lines.

Counted and Re-counted

When American correspondents crossed into Russian army territory with Gen. Hodges' party to visit the Soviet army commander they were carefully listed and counted as they rode across the Russian-built river level. Both the troops and the commanders have vast respect for each other's achievements, but except for the first two hilarious days of greeting and meeting when the rules went by the board they have not had much of an opportunity to get to know each other better.

Perhaps the closest camaraderie has developed between the newspapermen attached to the two armies. With its usual "open door" welcome policy, the U. S. First Army press camp the other night entertained three representatives from the Russian press camp including a Russian playwright—Constantin Siemov.

For two hours they genially and wittily answered questions on the Fed army—while a Soviet major stood by to deal with any queries of a political nature. It was an unusual session and one which would be beneficial if it could be duplicated for all ranks.

SECURITY COUNCIL ON ALL-POWERFUL BASIS IS ATTACKED

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

SAN FRANCISCO, May 3.—The Big-Four plan for an all-powerful world council to guard future peace today was attacked by several nations at the United Nations conference. They want to put peace-keeping on a more regional basis.

The United States is seeking both to promote the creation of a worldwide security system and to fit into it such regional organizations as the Pan-American system without allowing the development of regional blocks.

As proposals poured in for reshaping the Dumbarton Oaks proposals on the power of the Security council to use force, there were these other developments:

1. Stettinius started a drive to keep as many foreign ministers as possible here throughout the conference despite pressure of their war-end problems at home. He told some he hoped the job of blue-printing a world organization would be completed within three weeks and he intends to see it through. Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov plans to leave in a few days; British Foreign Secretary Eden plans to stay at least another week.

Discuss Polish Issue

2. Molotov, Eden and Stettinius conferred yesterday on Poland, trying to clear the way for reorganization of the Warsaw government. Last night those three and Foreign Minister Soong of China previewed future conference problems, seeking to line them up before Molotov leaves.

3. The American delegation decided Argentina should get no official position at the conference. Some South American countries want the Argentine delegate, soon to take his seat here, to be made official reporter for the commission on judicial organization. Should such a proposal be made, Russia is slated to insist that the position be held for Poland.

4. Foreign Minister Georges Bidault of France told a news conference his government could accept the principle of international military bases but would never surrender any territory.

5. Leaders of several middle and small power delegations said they would be unwilling to turn over complete control of their military forces to a security council in which they had no voice. They proposed that any country not on the council should give approval before its powers could be summed up to action.

6. The British completed a plan for international trusteeships over ex-enemy territories which opposes the United States plan for strategic trusteeships to cover military bases. The American proposal would let this country keep exclusive control over key islands captured from Japan.

ends with patience. Be humble and modest in dealing with your child. A teacher should be a good friend to his pupil."

Mrs. Smith Witter of North Canton, director of the East P.T.A. district, presided at both sessions.

Preceding Dr. Miller's address pins were presented to the president of the seven local units, including Atty. Charles McCorkhill, B. F. Jones, Mrs. Jerry Layton, William Luce Judge, Joel Sharp and Chalmers Groves. Mrs. Witter made the presentation.

Mrs. Ross Clark sang three solos, accompanied by Miss Anna Cook

Adopt Resolution

A resolution passed by the institute was wired to the House Education committee of the Ohio legislature asking for its favorable consideration of senate bill No. 39, which provides an increase in funds for the school foundation program.

Mrs. Russell C. Bickel of Columbus, general secretary of Ohio Congress, who discussed the goals and standards of the organization, said: "Regardless of what we may do today in national and international affairs, tomorrow must be safeguarded and the greatest safeguard for tomorrow is the preservation of the physical, mental and emotional stability of our present generation of children."

E. E. Holt, superintendent of Marion schools, and second vice president of the Ohio Congress, discussed the problems of education today and suggested some solutions for them. He pointed out that teachers are going through the same stress and strain as employees in other vocations and they are underpaid for the services they render. For the solution of some of the problems in the home he advocated family worship and family attendance at church.

Mrs. I. W. Basinger of Mansfield, state P.T.A. head, reviewed the national program.

The program opened with the pledge of allegiance to the flag and invocation by Rev. John Bauman.

The visitors were welcomed by E. S. Kerr, superintendent of Salem schools, and W. F. Ross, president of Salem council.

Music was furnished by the Junior High school band, directed by Walter Regal.

Dinner was served at the Lape hotel to 55 guests of the institute.

Russians around the Austrian city of Linz.

The British and Russians joined forces on the Baltic above captured Berlin and east of fallen Luebeck. What Germans remained were beaten; many had fled to the doubtful refuge of Denmark.

With the loss of Berlin, Hamburg, Luebeck and Rostock, the only large German cities remaining under the Swastika were Breslau, Dresden, Chemnitz and Kiel.

At Luebeck, the British were 38 miles from Kiel and 83 from the Danish frontier. Schwerin (45,000) Wismar and Wittenberge (both 25,000) toppled.

The Danubian fortress of Passau (25,000), guardian city to Linz, fell to Patton's troops.

Under terms of the Italian surrender, the Austrian provinces of the Tyrol, Vorarlberg and Salzburg were surrounded. Included were the cities of Innsbruck and Salzburg. The surrendered region stretches to within artillery range of Berchtesgaden.

More Generals Captured

The general German crackup was accelerated. Supreme headquarters listed the capture of Field Marshal Baron Maximilian von Weisels, former German commander in the Balkans, along with Field Marshals Von Rundstedt, Freiherr Von Sperle and 18 generals. Some 93,797 Germans surrendered Monday for a total since D-day for Eisenhower's armies of 2,801,915.

The Germans in the north surrendered in wholesale lots.

WE girls had, naturally, never seen a comet, and we read everything about it that we could lay our hands on. We were not in the least superstitious. "It is a perfectly natural occurrence," my mother had assured us, and we believed her. Then one day in April some disturbing news came, EARTH TO PASS THROUGH THE COMET'S TAIL, the paper read. RESULT DEBATABLE. The tail, it went on, was composed largely of gasses. We would go through it at 2500 miles a minute at 9 o'clock on the evening of May 18. The earth had passed through a comet's tail before, it reminded us once in 1819 and again in 1861, but those comets were smaller ones. This was Halley's. In a single month its tail had grown from 5,000,000 miles to more than 20,000,000. It was still growing....

A good many sensible people—not just country people, either—began to wonder if we might not be in for something. What they read wasn't designed to quiet them any. "Through the glowing appendage of Halley's comet, as poisonous as it is beautiful, the earth will plunge on May 18th, 1910," said Collier's Weekly.

Scientists hastened to reassure us. It was true, they said, that the tail did contain poisonous elements, but these were too thin to do any real damage. Most people took their word for it, but a few were already too aroused.

Len Gott predicted the imminence of Doomsday. It would come, he warned, as of the heavens cracking. After Boshy heard that, if you as much as snapped a whip in the stable he would quake all of us would live.

The fog hung on after that, burning off every day before noon.

On the 16th we had our first word from Cousin Victoria. She knew we were sorry for the way we had treated her, she said, and she was willing to accept our apology. She was distraught about the royal family. Then followed a quotation that Sue was proud to recognize as coming from Julius Caesar.

When beggars die, there are no comets seen;

The heavens themselves blaze forth the death of kings.

A postscript added: "This may be the last letter you will ever have

from me." Clearly she felt herself too, a special target.

"I'll certainly be thankful when the 18th is over," my mother sighed.

"Such a to-do over nothing!"

On the 17th the fog lifted, and some claimed to have seen the comet then, in broad daylight, though no two, it seemed, had seen it in the same place. At night it would be bigger, brighter. Boshy's agitation grew. His sniffs quickened in tempo. "What kin we do if the comet aims square at us?" he asked Mr. Tapley.

"We might ban it," Mr. Tapley told him. "The way we did automobiles."

On the morning of the 18th my mother insisted on my taking an extra spoonful of sulphur and molasses. "I'm going to have your father give you a thorough going-over," she said, looking worried.

"And beginning tonight you go to bed at 7."

She had forgotten!

"Not tonight, Mama. Everyone is going to the hill tonight."

THE AMERICAN HOUSE
By Virginia Chase

WE girls had, naturally, never seen a comet, and we read everything about it that we could lay our hands on. We were not in the least superstitious. "It is a perfectly natural occurrence," my mother had assured us, and we believed her. Then one day in April some disturbing news came, EARTH TO PASS THROUGH THE COMETS TAIL, the paper read. RESULT DEBATABLE. The tail, it went on, was composed largely of gasses. We would go through it at 2500 miles a minute at 9 o'clock on the evening of May 18. The earth had passed through a comet's tail before, it reminded us, once in 1819 and again in 1861, but those comets were smaller ones. This was Halley's. In a single month its tail had grown from 5,000,000 miles to more than 20,000,000. It was still growing....

A good many sensible people—not just country people, either—began to wonder if we might not be in for something. What they read wasn't designed to quiet them any. "Through the glowing appendage of Halley's comet, as poisonous as it is beautiful, the earth will plunge on May 18th, 1910," said Collier's Weekly.

Scientists hastened to reassure us. It was true, they said, that the tail did contain poisonous elements, but there were too thin to do any real damage. Most people took their word for it, but a few were already too aroused.

Len Gott predicted the imminence of Doomsday. It would come, he warned, as of the heavens cracking. After Boshy heard that, if you as much as snapped a whip in the stable he would quake all over.

It more than the threat of Doomsday to scare Mrs. Gupstill. If the world was coming to an end, she guessed this was as good a time as any, she said. As for her, she wasn't going to sit around until May 18 with her hands folded.

Julia, too, showed real bravado. She was interested in comets, and she hoped this one would come close enough so that she could get a good look, she said. She was going to take all the bottles she could find and fill them with gases when we passed through the tail. This was ridiculous, Sue confided to me. Being in the Academy, she naturally thought she knew all there was to know about science. "Those gases are purely hydrolic," she said, leaving me mystified, but impressed.

Still I didn't like the idea of gas. My father sometimes gave it in his office. It had a sickening smell. I had seen patients who had taken it resting upon his sofa. I knew how careful he was to turn it off at just the right instant. You sation that Sue was proud to recognize as coming from Julius Caesar.

When beggars die, there are no comets seen;

The heavens themselves blaze forth the death of kings.

A postscript added: "This may be the last letter you will ever have

from me." Clearly, she felt herself, too, a special target.

"I'll certainly be thankful when the 18th is over," my mother sighed. "Such a to-do over nothing!"

On the 17th the fog lifted, and some claimed to have seen the comet then, in broad daylight, though no two, it seemed, had seen it in the same place. At night it

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes filters which help purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent visits to the bathroom and getting up during the night shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable sleep. When dinner and kidney function are combined, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help you to feel better and get rid of that pesky waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills at just the right instant. You

Warren Noses Out Fred Cope's Quakers By 4½ Points

Salem Second, Struthers
Third In Triangular Meet;
Quakers Miss Ineligibles

Warren Harding High school's Presidents went home with an exciting triangular meet tucked neatly under their belts yesterday as they nosed out Coach Fred Cope's Salem Quakers 58½ to 54½ points as Struthers finished third with 39 points, at Reilly stadium.

Unquestionably a superior all-around squad yesterday, Warren captured seven of the 14 firsts, Salem getting three and tying for another with Struthers. Struthers also copped three firsts.

Bob Dugas of Struthers walked off with the individual honors at the affair, copping 13 points with a first in the high hurdles, another first in the high jump and a second in the low hurdles.

Paul Reed of Warren collected 11½ points for second high with a win in the 220 yard dash, a tie in the 100, fourth in the broad jump and as a member of the winning half mile relay squad.

Warren's two relay squads posted excellent times in winning the half and mile team events. In the half mile they skirted the track twice in just one minute and 33 seconds—a new record for the stadium in triangular affairs. Their time in the mile was three minutes and 34 seconds—not bad in any league.

Salem's shining lights were Mutt Schaeffer, Bob Pager, Dick Baumgart and Bill Ward. Schaeffer was by far the most outstanding Quaker on the field, tallying seven and ½ points in his three events.

He won the 440 yard dash with a 54 second circle and placed third in the broad jump with a leap of 19 feet 5½ inches. It was the first time he ever jumped in competition and about the third time he ever tried leaping at all.

The lanky Senior—by far the most reliable performer on the squad—pulled the mile relay team out of a hole as he skirted past a Struthers man inches before the tape to take second place for Salem in that event.

Pager whipped the discus 114 feet 8½ inches to take first in that event. The sky-high Freshman gives excellent promise of being a top-notch track man in later years.

Ward came through in the final inches of the low hurdles to nose out Struthers' Dugas and win.

Dick Baumgart exhibited some of his best vaulting ability in making the 10 feet six marks and tying Bokros of Struthers, who was picked to take the event with ease. Both men went out on the 10' 9" tries. Roesser came in for third place and a pair of points for the Quakers.

The meet was an exceptionally close one in that it was never certain for either team until the last two events.

Salem was severely hampered and probably beaten because two of its sure points winners—Walt Brian and Francis Lanney—are out this week because they are down in grades.

Lanney probably would have placed in the low hurdles or the 220 yard dash. He would have been a contender in the 100 yard dash also. Brian tosses the discus far enough to be in the pay-offs on that event and is an important cog in the mile relay team.

Also out on account of grades are Walt Krauss, a dash man, and a Freshman vaulter, Virgil Kelly. Both will be missed at the Canton relays Saturday.

The results:

DISCUS: Pager (S) won; Robinson (W) 2nd; Brauer (St.) 3rd; Busby (W) 4th. Distance—114 ft. 8½ in.

BAINBRIDGE, Md., May 3—If the Bainbridge Commodores here were to pick the most dangerous batter to face them this season, Ernie (Schnozzle) Lombardi of the New York Giants would win by a nose. In three games against the Maryland sailors, Ernie bashed out eight hits including three home runs.

"Happy" Chandler Started Life With Two Strikes On Him

Born In Log Cabin, Happy Had To Fight Way To Present Post

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK, May 3.—When Larry MacPhail walked into the Cleveland meeting, the new president of the Yankees did not dream that the owners would take Sen. Albert Benjamin Chandler's candidacy for commissioner of baseball seriously for 10 minutes, let alone elect him.

But since his High school days, Happy Chandler has been convinced that he was destiny's darling, and his so surprisingly landing what amounts to a life job at $50,000 a year is positive proof of it.

These days it seems that all a man requires to be elected governor of a southern state is a guitar and the ability to play it, but singing his way to that office in Kentucky was a bit more difficult when Chandler was first to do it and at 37 become one of the youngest chief executives of modern times.

In justice to the back-slapping Chandler, who is on the easy southern side, it must be said that he started life with two strikes on him, tough his way around the bases.

Like Abraham Lincoln, Chandler was born in Kentucky in comparative poverty in a cabin partly constructed of logs on his father's grubby little farm at Cordon, near the mouth of the Wabash river.

The youngster quickly learned to shift for himself, for his parents were divorced when he was four, and he and his younger brother, Robert, subsequently killed in a fall from a tree, were left with the father.

Blessed with a fine tenor voice, young Chandler early acquired the nickname Happy, laughing and singing his way through adversity.

When Chandler was graduated from Cordon High school in 1917, members of the class were handed printed legends bearing prophecies. The paper handed Happy read:

"Work hard while you wait and you'll be governor of your state."

Happy Chandler grinned, tucked the paper in his pocket, clutched his diploma and went singing out the old doorway of Cordon High.

It was here that he was seized with the darling of destiny idea. He still has that prophetic paper, yel-

Al Benton Appears To Be Just What O'Neill Needed

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

Al Benton appeared today the answer to Steve O'Neill's search for depth in his Detroit pitching staff as a No. 3 man behind Dizzy Trout and Hal Newhouser.

Over a 27-inning stretch in three complete games since the season opened, the ex-sailor has boosted himself into select unbeaten company by allowing a total of only two runs and 10 hits.

Chicago was his latest victim yesterday, 2-1, following a 1-0 shutout of St. Louis and a 5-1 decision over Cleveland.

The two became well acquainted, Frisch told Kelley by telephone from Pittsburgh yesterday, and the last thing Guappone said before Frisch left was: "When you get back to Pittsburgh, call Joe Kelley in Salem, Ohio, and tell him I wish I was home playing ball again."

The message—although a bit delayed because of Frisch's illness and the worries of opening the season with a big time club—got through to Joe yesterday morning.

Needless to add, Kelley was quite surprised—and pleased!

A Fear of Lombardi
BAINBRIDGE, Md., May 3.—If the Bainbridge Commodores at the Naval Training station here were to pick the most dangerous batter to face them this season, Ernie (Schnozz) Lombardi of the New York Giants would win by a nose. In three games against the Maryland sailors, Ernie bashed out eight hits including three home runs.

Kelley Receives Delayed European Message From Frankie Frisch

Joe Kelley, Salem's recreational director, received an extraordinary message through extraordinary channels yesterday.

Capt. William "Gabby" Guappone, now stationed in Belgium, where he is directing recreational activities for troops there and in Germany, sent a greeting to Kelley via an acquaintance he had made, Frankie Frisch, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

It seems Frisch was on a tour in France, Germany and Belgium with a group of big league baseball players shortly before the season opened. He was conducted through the various Army locations by Capt. Guappone, a former Salem football, basketball and baseball player.

The two became well acquainted, Frisch told Kelley by telephone from Pittsburgh yesterday, and the last thing Guappone said before Frisch left was: "When you get back to Pittsburgh, call Joe Kelley in Salem, Ohio, and tell him I wish I was home playing ball once again."

The message—although a bit delayed because of Frisch's illness and the worries of opening the season with a big time club—got through to Joe yesterday morning.

Needless to add, Kelley was quite surprised—and pleased!

The Rexall high standard of quality is a rigid standard — which is never, never lowered.

Yet the Rexall plan of merchandising guarantees low prices at all times. On special occasions some of the items advertised here are offered at less than regular list prices, but at no time do we offer this merchandise at such drastically reduced prices as now. Although never priced lower, a few of the values offered here are not on the One Cent Sale Plan.
